

AT 73 HE MARRIES

Aged Merchant Takes Domestic of 22 as Bride.

SAYS IT'S NOBODY'S BUSINESS

Bridegroom Declares That Two Members of His Family Who Object to Marriage Only Show Their Ingratitude—Daughter Says He is Perfectly Sane.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—John Schoenherr, seventy-three years old, woolen merchant of this city, who Saturday married Miss Julia Kleinbach, twenty-two years old, a nurse in his home, declared that his marriage concerned nobody but himself and his bride and that the objections of his son and daughter were a mark of the highest ingratitude.

Through the public record of the Wilmington county court, however, it became known that the two who went to Magistrate Gluckman's office Saturday and from there to the home of the Rev. George L. Wolfe were Mr. Schoenherr and Miss Kleinbach.

"I am the man that did it," Mr. Schoenherr said in the name of his daughter. "I am John Schoenherr. I married a respectable young lady, and I am proud of it. It is nobody's business but my own, and I don't want any interference."

"I don't care what they write," he said. "It doesn't make any difference to me. I know what I am doing, and that is proved by the fact that only two members of my family object to my marriage. They have no right to object. Every one of my children lives in a home which I gave them, and their actions show their ingratitude."

"I am a thorough business man, and my reputation is good. I have lived long enough in this country to become a good citizen, and when soldiers were wanted I enlisted while others held back. That is why I am receiving a pension. I am well off and can take care of myself."

"And he is perfectly sane too," Mrs. Gasiter chimed in. She turned to her father and beckoned him into the house. He had talked enough, she said.

The marriage of the prosperous woolen merchant has caused a stir in the section in which he lives. Neighbors have known his young wife only as a domestic, they say, and were surprised to learn that she had become head of the household. Little is known of her except that she came to the Schoenherr home from the interior of the state about sixteen months ago.

THREE HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

Casualty Caused by Breaking of an Air Hose—Topples Over Embankment.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 29.—When an air hose broke on a Lehigh Valley coal train at La Grange three cars were piled up and toppled over an embankment with the engine and three men were badly hurt. The injured are: John Corenda, address unknown, who is said to be a trespasser; H. M. Bowman, Pittsburgh, conductor of the train; J. Sanford, fireman, Wilkesbarre.

When the accident happened the train was moving at a slow rate of speed, and this prevented the accident from being much more serious than it was. Conductor Bowman was seated in the caboose and he was hurled against a stove and received many bruises and lacerations. Several of his wounds had to be stitched by a doctor. Fireman Sanford was thrown against the boiler, and besides sustaining many bruises he was also badly burned. Corenda was found in the wreckage in an unconscious condition. None of the crew knew that he was on the train. All the victims were taken to the Sayre hospital.

TO EXHUME MAN'S BODY.

Detectives Want to Learn Whether Hartmann Died From Poison.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—Definite decision has been reached by detectives to exhume the body of Frederick Hartmann, first husband of Mrs. Frieda Trost, who is accused of poisoning her second husband, Edmund Trost, at her home in this city. Edmund Guenkel, bartender for Mrs. Trost, is being held with her for alleged complicity in the murder.

The body of Hartmann, who died in Feb. 19, 1911, is in Greenmount cemetery, and it is planned to exhume it soon.

Detectives say they believe Hartmann may have been poisoned for his insurance and estate, valued at $7,000. The body of Trost also will be taken from the grave and a quantitative analysis will be made of the contents of his stomach. It has been finally decided not to exhume the bodies of the three Hartmann children, who died several years ago.

35,000 AT BOOTH'S FUNERAL.

Ceremony is Deeply Impressive as Massed Bands Play.

London, Aug. 29.—It is estimated that 35,000 persons gathered in Olympia to take part in the memorial services of the late General Booth.

The scenes in the vast building were emotional to an extraordinary degree. It was probably the greatest funeral service the world has known.

It was not a service of sorrow. There was no black, no somber color. The playing of the dead march in "Saul," and the coffin, escorted by the oldest soldiers of the army which General Booth founded, were the only indications of death.

The chief impression conveyed by the proceedings was that of triumphant though solemn rejoicing for the life of a great religious leader.

Throughout the passage of the funeral procession, which occupied twenty minutes in passing up the arena, massed bands played and replayed the dead march. Then followed a long, emotional service, after which every Salvationist was invited to make a fresh consecration of his life and penitents were exhorted to come to the mercy seat.

Finally a hymn of triumph, with bands blaring and tens of thousands of voices singing, closed the ceremony, which, though inartistic in details, was yet deeply impressive in its vast and strange appeal.

Columbus, O., Aug. 29.—Three thousand feet of moving picture film of the great suffrage parade, held as part of the centennial celebration, will be shown in theaters throughout the state before election next Tuesday.

Suffragettes point to the demonstration as a powerful argument in favor of woman suffrage. They are proud that more than 3,000 women and 100 men are in line and that 75,000 persons applauded.

KILLS THREE BABES

Mother Then Tries to End Her Own Life.

HAD QUARRELED WITH HUSBAND

He Had Premonition That Something Was Wrong and Hurried Home to Find Little Ones Dead of Gas and Mother Dying.

New York, Aug. 29.—Because of a trivial quarrel with her husband, the first they had had in the ten years of their married life, Mrs. Sarah Sypher killed her three children and is herself at the point of death.

Mrs. Sypher was found unconscious lying on her bed beside the three children. Two gas jets were turned on, and the windows and doors were closed.

Mr. Sypher, who is an ironworker in Staten Island, left his home in Williamsburg in a happy mood. He quarreled with his wife, but she seemed to have got over her temper. He kissed her goodby and went in and kissed the three children as they lay in bed asleep.

Suspected Something Wrong.

He began to feel a premonition that something was wrong and asked the foreman to let him go home. He arrived home to find the doors locked. Quickly he beat them down and burst into the bedroom. He leaped back before a rush of gas and ran to throw open all the windows.

Returning to the bedroom he saw the three children—Edward, eight years old; Muriel, five, and Le Roy, four—lying on the bed just as he had left them. His wife lay across the foot of the bed.

He called frantically for help and some one got a nearby doctor, who was closely followed by Dr. Weithas from Bushwick hospital. Both pronounced the children dead.

Mrs. Sypher was taken to Bushwick hospital. No hope is held out for her recovery.

Sypher was frantic with grief and had to be restrained by the police, who feared that he, too, might try to kill himself.

CANNON IN KICK CONTEST.

Uncle Joe Accepts the Challenge of an Athletic Nonagenarian.

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 29.—Uncle Joe Cannon, in a letter to State Senator Charles S. Marden, accepts the challenge of J. B. Blanchard, aged ninety, of this city, to a "high kicking" contest. Mr. Cannon's reply says:

"I cannot suggest that Mr. Blanchard first get a reputation before attempting to challenge me in this regard, for, of course, his prowess in this delightful sport is known to all men. In view of the tone of defiance indicated by this statement I cannot do otherwise than to accept."

Mr. Cannon then presents his best wishes to Mr. Blanchard, who on his ninetieth birthday declared he could beat "Uncle Joe or any other young old boys" at a high kicking contest. The date of the meet has not been set.

PREPARES TO WED AT 108.

Negro Married Same Woman Fifty-eight Years Ago.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 29.—Among those who applied to Charles S. Gail, registrar of vital statistics, for a marriage license was Timothy Griffin, a negro, who gave his age as 108 years. He is to marry Lucy Blackwell, with whom he was a slave on a plantation in Ashley county, Va., fifty-eight years ago. They married according to a custom among slaves by jumping over a broomstick and declaring they were man and wife. They raised nine children and now intend to make their marriage legal.

Griffin was born in Ashley county, and his father took his name, Samuel Griffin, after the master of the estate. For twelve years they have lived in this city.
